A regional tasting winter

The cellar team follows the slopes inland. At a tasting, guests can compare the influence of altitude, soil and distance from the sea.

This note is part of the 2012 Tiera house collection. The press office can arrange further background, interviews and a selection of photographs.