A village morning winter

The first coffee is served at the edge of the square. A short walk through the lanes leads back towards the boats.

This note is part of the 2017 Tiera house collection. The press office can arrange further background, interviews and a selection of photographs.